N Studio, the design arm of super-prime developer Northacre, has launched a brand new architectural division and made some impressive additions to its teamsheet.

The specialist division will work with the firm's existing interior & interior architecture offering, providing clients with a full service from concept inception and design, through to the construction phase and bespoke finishing.

Former Foster + Partners associate Lucia Petrelli has been signed up to front the new 14-strong team; the big launch follows a raft of hires from some of London's top practices.

A graduate of the University of Architecture of Venice, Petrelli spent the first part of her career at Italian firm Archea Associati and has led projects in Miami, Cleveland, Istanbul and Riyadh, taking in everything from superyachts to super-prime resi.

The other new recruits include Haris Aristodemou (former Architect at Foster + Partners), Simon Diesendruck (former Senior Designer at Michaelis Boyd), Eva Hernandez (former architect at James Cubitt and Partners), Ovidiu Mihutescu (former designer at Zaha Hadid Architects), Amanda Montiel (former Associate at Brisac Gonzalez Architects) and Anastasia Ferrucci (former Architect at Flanagan Lawrence).

Niccolo Barattieri, CEO of Northacre: "Lucia Petrelli's leadership experience across an impressive portfolio of international schemes and creative approach to architecture, is a welcome addition to the strong specialist skills of the wider N Studio team. Lucia's appointment, alongside seven others, signals N Studio Architecture's growing client base and reputation as a leading boutique architecture practice in the UK and internationally."

Lucia Petrelli, Director of Architecture at N Studio: "It is an honour to be joining N Studio and leading the new specialist architecture division at such an exciting time in the company's history. I have long admired Northacre and N Studio's work – both are proven masters across a range of projects from impressive legacy homes to significant regeneration schemes. The N Studio architecture team provides an exceptionally strong range of specialisms and range of experience and we look forward to working on a pipeline of exciting landmark projects in the UK and internationally."
